(SPECIAL TO THE 'CHINESE MAIL.') OPERATIONS IN COREA.

Shanghai, 28th July, 10.46 a.m. Corean King captured by the Tapanese. Chinese forces in Corea besieged by Japanese.

Last night we received too late for publication a telegram from Mr A. M. Bisbee, Coast Inspector, notifying that torpedoes had been laid down in the North or Shaweishan Channel and also in the entrance to the Yangtse North of Taungming. Vessels are warned to use only the South Channel when entering the Yangtse. It is creditable to the Customs Staff that publicity is so promptly given to such information as that referred to.

The China Merchants' agency in Hongkong has received instructions from the head office in Shanghai that the Kwanglee, which was to have left Shanghai for Hongkong to-day, will not be despatched, and that the Fushun, which was to have left Hongkong for the north yesterday, is not to leave until further orders. We learn that all the China Merchants' steamers have been put under the German flag to-day.

A rumour was afloat in Hongkong yesterday that the Hiroshima Maru, which left here on the 25th for Japan, had been captured; but probably there is nothing more in the story than that somebody is afraid such a thing might happen.

The following notes are taken from various Japan papers:--both from Shanghai and from Seoul direct, to the effect that parties of British and American marines had entered the Korean | The German steamer Ningpo has, it is re capital. many having returned home on account Ming, it is said, has requested Russia's protection for Korea in case of emergency and has received a favourable reply. The report that the Chinese troops at A-san had advanced to Su-won seems to have been premature. According to the Nichi Nichi Shimbun's Soul pondent, whose telegram is dated July 13th, 9.05 a.m., although the troops make occasional excursions in the vicinity of A-sau they are still quartered at that place. It thus seems that the Japanese Minister's warning to the Chinese commander had the desired effect of preventing him from moving toward the capital. Another correspondent telegraphs that General Sheh will probably enter Soul without any armed escort, on the pretext of seeing the King but really for the purpose of inspecting the Japanese troops. According to trustworthy authority, the Japanese Government has decided to build barracks (wooden) in the neighbourhood of Soul and In chhou in view of certain events necessitating the lengthy stay of Japanese troops in the penineula.

Shimonoseki, July 16 It is stated that two Japanese soldiers, who went to A-san to inquire into the condition of the Chinese troops, have been taken captives by the latter.

Shimonoseki, July 16. The Suminoye Maru which arrived here at midnight, left for Ujina this morning. She brought over thirty disabled soldiers 45, and Boffey (owing 75) beat Reeves from Korea.

There was considerable difficulty at starting, as the Hon. Secretary was not in a fit state for duty. Ultimately he took a seat in the meeting-room as an ordinary mem-

After a good deal of trouble, the business before the meeting was commenced by the Hon. Treasurer making a statement of the Association's financial position up to May 31, showing liabilities $292.97, and assets $234.80 cash in the bank, besides some $700 due in the form of unpaid chits and subsoriptions; some of the defaulting members' addresses were unknown. It was suggested that a circular be issued urging all members to pay up as speedily as possible.

The President-Well, gentlemen, you will see at a glance that the Association is bound to come to a bad end very shortly, unless there is a change of programme altogether. I think that fact stands out as plainly as it oan. At the end of May the Association has only $230 in hand to meet liabilities of $290, but against that you have a lot of outstanding debts amounting to about $700, which members have not seen fit to pay up. Now, it is absolutely necessary that some pressure be k-ought to bear on these gentlemen to pay up; but there seems to be a difficulty about it, in one sense, namely, the difficulty of getting the addresses of some of the people who are behind-hand in their subscriptions and appaid chits, but we know most of them can be got at. These financial matters have been, as far as my experience with the Association has gone, very slack all the time I have seen anything of it. Members themselves do not give sufficient attention to the matter: they allow it to run on anyhow, without ascertaining the state of affairs; now, for instance, we are here this evening to hold the annual meeting, but we have only a handful of members present. All these things are allowed to go by default, and the consequence is that a certain number of members do not take the trouble to pay up.

Capt. Peck-There should be a rule to fine anybody who does not pay within a reasonable time.

what is due, that would do; but if we cannot, fines would not be paid either. You have heard what Capt. Branch says, that if the defaulters would pay up there would be plenty of money in hand; but they have not done it. It is a pity that a little more pressure was not brought to hear on them before now.

Mr Cheetham-I believe there is a rule that the bills should not be allowed to run over a certain length of time.

Capt. Branch-No. it does not quite put it in that way. (Rule quoted-that defaulters must be notified before any action could be taken). There is no rule to strike their names off the list of members for not

The President-This circular contains nothing that anyone can take exception to: it is simply a notification that a certain amount is outstanding and should be paid. After a little further discussion it was unanimously decided that the circular should be sent.

The President-I must impress upon you that onless members of the Association give more attention to these matters of finance you will always be in trouble. It seems to be quite a secondary consideration with members altogether; whether they expect the Secretary to look after everything, and think they need not bother, I do not know. You see, you have done away with the Committee - whether wisely or unwisely I do not feel inclined to express an opinionbut you have practically dispensed with the services of the two or three ordinary members who were on shore all the time and could give their continuous attention to these things, and the consequence is that the control has always been changing hands, and the different people do not know That the special powers given by the

The President-Mr Spooner, will you be good enough to retire, please?

Mr Spooner-No. : I---The President (rising)—Then, gentlemen, I shall bave to leave you.

Mr Spooner was escorted to the door and induced to leave, though he returned at a later stage.

The President resumed the chair, and the suggestion-box ' was opened. One suggestion had reference to the extension of visiting members' privileges. Another proposed that the Association should acquire a boat for harbour use. Another referred to the diffioulty caused by the resignation of Mr D. Shearer, the late Secretary.

After considerable discussion it was decided to issue notices and leave voting lists open for a month, so that any member coming into port could vote for any candidate he wished. The only names mentioned were those of Mr Chesney Duncan and Mr Cheetham. Meantime, Mr Spooner continues

There being no further business, the President in closing the meeting said-I wish to inform you, gentlemen, and also to let the rest of the members know that you will have to expect my resignation as President very shortly. I have no wish to run away from you in a hurry, but I wish you to prepare yourselves and to think about selecting a new President. Several members expressed their regret of the announcement, and hoped the Presi-

Capt. Branch thought the Association would do much better this year. The meeting then concluded with lat vote of thanks to the Chairman, which was duly acknowledged.

THE CLEANEST RACE ON EARTH.

REVELATIONS IN CHINESE CHARACTERISTICS. It would appear from Mr Cromwell I have not touched on the moral question Childe's discoveries in the Chinese quarter in 'Chinatewn.' Let it be said that it is of New York that all former opinions re- not as bad as has been stated. There are garding Chinese modes of life are based on | many civil marriages between the Chinamen misconceptions. This is how he discourses and the white girls. The Chinaman makes in the Tacoma Ledger to the enlightened the best husband in the world. All his masses of the United States :-

In gennine Mongolian interest this quarter is second only to the noted Chinatowa of San Francisco. Half a hundred diverse civillizations have a focal contre for themselves at the beginning of the Bowery, five minutes' ride in a cable car from the City Hall and the Post-office. In his fastness of crooked streets just off Chatham Square-Pell, Doyer and Mott-John Chinaman steadfastly refuses to be Americanized. Small as the quarter is it shelters nearly twonty-five hundred Mongolians. Those who know these Orientals as brothers say morning, however, he overslept himself, and there are between six and seven thousand Chinese, 'Chinesers' and 'Chinks' in the the train he intended to journey by that day, metropolitan district-that is Brooklyn, Now York and Jersey City. Chinatown is the Mecca for each and every one of these thousands.

Chinatown is generally spoken of as squalid and crowded, its inhabitants are denominated dirty haythen, and when one suggests a Chinese bill of fare the American joke-maker talks about rats and shudders at some imaginary uncleanliness.

Crowded Chinatown certainly is, but squalid is the last word to apply to it. For Scrofula, Scurvy, many as are needed are withdrawn.

Harry Lee King is the Chinese Delmonico. He is an Americanized Chinaman good-natured, keen and clever. Though he caters in some measure to Americans, his place has lost none of its characteristics. and conventional Orientals swarm there by the dozens. The prices, and therefore the margin of profit, are much smaller here than in the more widely known restaurants up town, yet nevertheless, Harry Les King manages to clear $7,000 to $8,000 a year. A moment's digression for Wong Ching Foo, the lawyer in chief of the colony, a very small Oriental, possessed of a college education, and with nothing but his face to show his race. Wong Ching is thoroughly Americanized. Even his ideas are those of Americans. He talks glibly on politics, races and the fashions. Once he edited a breezy paper called the Chinese American, but the Oriental support was not sufficient. He is the connecting link between the people of the colony and the world without. Another idea regarding the Chinese needs correction. This is with reference to their traditional near-handedness. It has been said that a Chinaman can live on a few cents a day. Without doubt he can but it is a fact that he very seldom does. He-wants good and nourishing food of the finest quality—and he gets it. A recent typical lunch a friend and myself had at Harry Lee King's cost sixty-five cents.

Every Chinese dinner includes pot after pot of tung-chan (hot tea). "Tung-chau" is the most frequent cry in a Chinese restaurant. Tea is free ad libitum to every patron. Even more, it would be given to every tramp and beggar who asked for it. A huge vessel is constantly kept upon the stove. A curious tradition explains this custom. Centuries before Christ uttered his memorable words about that 'cup of cold water,' the prophet Confucius said that whoever should give a cup of hot tea to the wayfarer should receive his reward. I have spoken of the real cleanliness of the Chinese. The chiefest charm of a Chinese kitchen is the immaculateness of the cooks. The Chinese who should fail to wash himself morning and night, from top to toe, would be no Chinaman at all. A recent superintendent of the Southern Pacific Railway told this of his experience while managing the construction of one of its se 'ons: 'Chinese laborers would be the best we could get, if it wasn't for the trouble we have in supplying each of them with five gallons of water a day.'

Surely, one Chinaman doesn't drink all that!' began his interlocutor. The superintendent laughed.

Not a bit of it. A Chinaman rarely drinks water. But he requires every drop of that amount to wash himself." Yent Sing, of Mott Street, the largest grocer of Chinatown, is also, in all prob-

So John stayed, for lovers are never eager to part and he needed no coaxing. The next Maggie's lather, at his breakfast, having missed wondered how the good old clock could have lost an hour in the night. But Maggie didn't explain.
